

Woodstock, New York

September 28, 1935

Dear Mr. Park:

It wasn't so good that I invited you to have lunch with me in New York, and then went away to California, and then here for two months. But I wanted to say that the invitation still holds good, whatever may be the date of your next visit to town. I judge you have not yet tried to find me there, since mail would have been forwarded.

I shall be back early next week, and then in town continuously for several months.

By chance we have been living these two months in a house you designed: Ethel Paine's in Woodstock. And a fine place it is too.

Did I thank you for the material about Bennington? It served a very good purpose.

Cordially yours,

Sheldon Cheney

Our apartment address will change next week - we don't yet know what it will be. But a note to me in care of THE PLAYERS, 16 Gramercy Park, will always reach me.
