FROM THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

Edward Hallett Carr was born in London in 1892. After graduating from Trinity College, Cambridge, he entered the Foreign Office in the First World War and remained in the British Diplomatic Service for more than 20 years. During this time he was a member of the British Delegation to the Peace Conference in Paris, and later of the British Delegation to the League of Nations at Geneva.

In 1936 he was appointed Woodrow Wilson Professor of International Politics in the University of Wales--a post which he held until 1947. During the Second World War he acted as Assistant Editor of the London Times from 1941 to 1946. Since 1947 he has been engaged on a large-scale history of Soviet Russia, of which the first volume under the title The Bolshevik Revolution has recently been published.

Among his previous books have been The Romantic Exiles, a study of Russian nineteenth-century revolutionaries in exile (1933), Michael Bakunin (1937), International Relations between the Two World Wars (1937), The Twenty Years' Crisis (1939), Conditions of Peace (1942),

Nationalism and After (1945), and The Soviet Impact on the Western World (1946). He is now completing a series of lectures at Johns Hopkins University on "German-Soviet Relations between the Two World Wars."

FROM THE SWITCHBOARD

The College switchboard is opened for regular service at 7:00 a.m. every morning and is closed at 11:00 p.m. each night. Between 11:00 p.m. and 7:00 a.m., the Night Policeman takes all calls that may come in to the College, but is, in no sense, acting as telephone operator. He is not expected to put through calls to any member of the Community. The Night Policeman refers any case of emergency to the College official who is in charge and responsible for handling emergencies.

In case of an emergency which necessitates the making of an outside call by a Community member, he or she will have to go to the Night Policeman's hut to make the call or to the Pay Station located in the hall in Commons.

When you place a long-distance call which cannot be completed immediately, please stay near your telephone or notify the operator where you can be reached.
