Night Music

by Nadi Qamar

This music reflects the essence of my physical and spiritual life experiences from first awareness to the present. Having observed and meditated upon many parallels of phenomena, I am convinced that extempore musical performance is a well-spring of analogies to creation and perpetuation of harmonious human relations. Musical sound is an oracle, infallible by virtue of its existence. Tonal structures don't debate whether they should or shouldn't co-exist.

They simply imbue the atmosphere, meld into others, then fade into silence.
