

BENNINGTON COLLEGE

presents

a

SENIOR GROUP CONCERT

STEPHEN EARLS, ALEXANDRA HUGHES, ANNA SEARS

Sunday
April 1, 1973

2:00 P.M.

Carriage Barn

Preludes for Guitar, No.'s 1,3 &4

H. Villa Lobos

Stephen Earls, Guitar

Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Minor Prelude and Fugue in D Minor

J.S. Bach

Anna Sears, Piano

Nun Wandre Marie, song by Hugo Wolf
Ringst ist der Wald, gypsy song by Dvorak

Alexandra Hughes, Soprano
Peter Golub, Piano

INTERMISSION

C-Minor Phantasie (No.4), K-475

Mozart

Anna Sears, Piano

Leftovers for Guitar, Violin, and Percussion (November 1972)
in 3 portions

Stephen P. Earls

1. Morsels
2. Canned Vegetables
3. Turkey Hash

Stephen Earls, Acoustic Guitar
Mitchell Markowitz, Violin
Peter Golub, Xylophone and Glockenspiel
David Jacobson, Piano
Richard Harris, Chimes

Woodwind Quartet

Eric Dash

Edith Bicknell, Oboe
Deborah Morse, Flute
Gunnar Schonbeck, Clarinet
Edward Whiteside, Bassoon

"Ostinato" from Mikrokosmos, Vol. VI

Bartok

Anna Sears, Piano

NUN WANDRE MARIE (translation) Sung by St. Joseph

Walk on Mary ever on.
The cocks are already crowing,
and the place is near.

Walk on, my love,
my treasure,
and soon we shall be in Bethlehem.

There you shall rest
and sleep.
The cocks are already crowing,
and the place is near.

I see -- dear wife and lady -
your strength ebbing,
your agony
I can hardly bear.

Have courage! We shall find some shelter there.
The cocks are already crowing
and the place is near

If your hour of pain
were already over, Mary,
I would well reward
the bringer of such good news.

This little ass here
I would gladly give him!
The cocks are already crowing,
come - the place is near.

SILENT WOODS (translation) Rings Ist der Wald

Calm lies the wood
So peaceful and still
I hear the fearful beating of my heart
I hear the fearful beating of my heart
This black haze wraps me in a cloud
And hides the tears falling from my cheeks.

This grief exists deep in my heart
Where I would feign conceal it
Where I would feign conceal it
A grief that revenge may never know
Till welcome death shall heal it.