All Present, Mr. Dorner part of the time. Mr. Feeley on leave of absence.

In regard to the Alumnae exhibition in June 1957 it was decided that the exhibitors should pay for the shipment of their works.

Mr. Dorner discussed Debbie Feldman. He is not very satisfied with her work. Mr. Shapiro mentioned that she is under the impression that she will be able to teach here permanently after graduation. The art faculty does not know anything about this and does not know where she could have gotten the idea. Mr. Dorner said that she expects to be in Bennington next term but that she is not planning to be here next fall.

Mr. Dorner, who was asked to be the secretary next term, refused. He stated that he was the secretary last spring and that he cannot see why he should do it next term. Since some of the other members of the division felt that they have other commitments, i.e., serving on committee, etc., a discussion followed. One suggestion was made that we carry on without a division secretary and that Miss Sherwood take care of the chores, i.e., taking minutes, correspondence, etc. No decision was made.

The Wednesday meeting time was discussed. Wednesday is not a good day for most of the division members but no other day has been scheduled as yet.

Outside exhibitions were discussed. Mr. Holt suggested that one member of the division should be responsible for all exhibits during the term. However, it was felt that each instructor should arrange for exhibitions in his own field, and that it worked out all right this term.

Mr. Holt suggested an exhibition of portraits by Gardner Cox, portrait painter. He will get in touch with him about arranging a date.

Mr. Shapiro is planning to get an exhibition from the members of Contemporary Print Makers.

The question of the unsatisfactory arrangement with the store about the exhibition room was discussed again. It was decided that two members of the division should discuss the matter with Mr. Brockway.

In connection with the disagreement as to who should serve as secretary next term, it was regretted that the Faculty Committee does not function any more. This matter might have been brought to their attention.

Merry Christmas!
