

GALLEY

To the Community:

One of the more effective means of changing conditions in New York City ghetto areas is the development of community-owned businesses -- whose employees live in the neighborhood and whose profits benefit neighborhood people.

An organization was recently formed by people living in Bedford Stuyvesant for the purpose of starting a community-based and owned business. In order to raise capital, they are giving a dance in Brooklyn on April 5. Tickets are available through me and cost $3.00.

Since you will very likely not be able to go to New York on April 5, you are warmly invited to make a contribution of 50¢ or one dollar.

I will be in Commons from noon to one o'clock, Tuesday, to sell tickets and accept contributions. Thank you for your cooperation.

March 22

Natalie Orloff

Checks of larger amounts should be made out to Mr. James Wooten.

[1968]