From the Health Office

All students must be weighed this week.

Freshmen who have not signed for a physical examination should do so at once.

Mail Service

The College post office in the Commons building has been enlarged this summer in order to centralize all mail functions under the postmistress. The incoming mail will be sorted and distributed into the mail boxes at the post office at 8:45 A.M., 12:45 P.M. and 3:30 P.M. Outgoing mail will be taken to the Bennington Post Office at 11:15 A.M., 1:50 P.M. and 5 P.M.

All members of the community when wishing to leave any notes or mail in a person's mail box are requested to place them in a basket tray at the post office counter and the postmistress will take care of distributing them.

Between 12 and 1 P.M. daily a heavy parcels post, express and freight package delivery will be made from the shipping room to all buildings on the campus.

Mrs. Viola Conley is in charge of the switchboard unit as well as the post office. The post office will also be open daily between 1 and 2 P.M. and Saturday afternoons.

From Mrs. Michaels' Office

Students are reminded that there is an inventory card on the inside of their closet door, which is to be kept there. On this card a student will also find the day on which her room will be cleaned each week. On that day students are requested to be prepared by hanging up their clothes, making the bed, and removing small articles from dresser and table tops so that furniture may be moved easily and the room can be more thoroughly cleaned.

Students are responsible for blankets and pillows, inventory numbers of which are on the above-mentioned card. Check with your housemaid!

During the summer, a few changes took place in the College plant. The President's house in Old Bennington was sold. On the campus the basement of Welling house was remodeled for use by Mr. Holt as an art studio. The roads were resurfaced and a few improvements made in the lay-out.

Music Program

A string ensemble concert by the Bennington children's orchestra under the direction of Franz Lorenz will be given in the Old Bennington museum next Monday evening, September 22, at 8:00 o'clock. The high quality of its musicianship and performance has given this group an enviable reputation throughout Vermont and in neighboring regions.

Bennington college musicians have frequently cooperated in the programs and the college community has furnished increasingly enthusiastic support for the annual concerts.

Admission - 50 cents. Tickets may be obtained at Noveck's in Bennington or at the door.
