Dear Kit,

Here's a minor problem that can be quickly solved:

Some time ago there was a guy who wrote me asking about Ted R. and mysticism. I ~~gimm~~ gave him your address anent the record of books on the sumjick that ~~mm~~ piled up in the Mysticism Annex to the Liberry on the first floor of Shingle Cottage. I doan no what happened, whether he asked you, and what you told him. Mebbe you were disgust.

But now another such customer has turned ~~m~~ up here. Should I ask him to eskyuh? Or shd. I say FORGET?

I enclose a postcard ~~ym~~ dsigined to make your answer ~~vetotally~~ painless. Should I give him your address and ask him to ask you for the list? Or shd. I simply say it's not available? Or available under such-and-such conditions, incl. cost?

as in a

And ~~asidm~~ quid pro quo, I'll give you some inside market advice. Buy up all the editions of the March 15, NY Sunday Times. ~~But~~ As the Insiders got it lined-up now, there'll be an interview with Burke. There's a chawnst to cash in on. Corner the market, and you've got it made.
