

MONDAY, MARCH 10, 2014

FELICIA KEESING

Biodiversity Loss and Infectious Diseases: the Case of Lyme Disease

Felicia Keesing is Professor of Biology; David and Rosalie Rose Distinguished Professor of Science, Mathematics, and Computing; Director, Biology Program, Bard College

MONDAY, MARCH 17, 2014

KATHERINE SMITH

Global Change and Disease:
Lessons from the Macroscope

Katherine Smith is Assistant Professor of Ecology & Evolutionary Biology Ecology & Evolutionary Biology, Brown University

MONDAY, MARCH 31, 2014

GEORGE LUBER

The Health Consequences of a Changing Climate:
Findings from the 3rd US National Climate Assessment

George Luber is associate director for Climate Change at the Centers for Disease Control, and an adjunct member of the Emory University Dept of Environmental Sciences

MONDAY, APRIL 14, 2014

KAREN LIPS

Amphibian Population Declines:
Complex Causes and Consequences for Global Amphibian Biodiversity Loss

Karen Lips is associate professor of Biology and Director of Graduate Program in Sustainable Development and Conservation Biology, University of Maryland.

SPONSORED BY BENNINGTON COLLEGE
AND THE PROGRAM ON ENVIRONMENT

ENVIRONMENTAL CHANGE AND INFECTIOUS DISEASE

SPEAKER SERIES

CAPA SYMPOSIUM | 1:00–2:00 PM

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT KERRY WOODS 440-4465 OR VISIT WWW.BENNINGTON.EDU