There has been a feeling among students of radical persuasion that there has been no viable political body on campus. Attempts in the past have failed because of organization, apathy approach. An excuse has been that such activity seems somehow inappropriate at Bennington. A group is being formed which welcomes the participation of all interested students. The direction of this organization will not be towards the college where there are sufficient channels for communication and an external catalyst is irrelevant. Rather, the group will focus on any contemporary issues and appropriate activity. The first meeting will discuss such topics as radical theater and women's liberation as well as any suggestions from members. Tom Bell, SDS regional traveler, will attend to help formulate ideas about activity. The meeting will be Thursday, October 17 at 7:30 in Fels Living Room.
