*GENERAL MEETING

There will be a panel on Africa this evening in the Carriage Barn at 8:15 p.m. The important role that Africa plays in world affairs is slowly being realized by people all over the world. Tonight we are very fortunate in having four very able guests on our panel. They all have first hand knowledge of the people and problems of Africa. Mr. David Thomas, Cultural Attache of the Liberian Embassy in Washington, will be here to represent his country on the panel.

Mr. A. Nogueira da Acosta, from the Portuguese Embassy, will talk about Portuguese possessions on the African continent. Mrs. Adele Boke, from the Foreign Office Administration, has recently returned from a trip to Libya and therefore is well acquainted with that area of the Dark Continent.

Mr. Tyner is familiar with French and British Africa. After the panel members have delivered their informal speeches, a discussion period will be held.
