- *In Darfur • 44% of the population is directly affected by war
- 1.4-million people are displaced
- Each day, 333 lives are claimed in the world's worst humanitarian crisis

*According to a 2004 report issued by Waging Peace

Former BBC journalist Rebecca Tinsley broadcasts regularly on subjects such as international human rights and genocide. She serves on the Human Rights watch London committee, established the Carter Centre UK, and is a trustee of the Bosnian Support Fund. She directs Waging Peace, a non-governmental organization whose current campaign is to protect the people of Darfur. She also is the founder of a girls school in Rwanda.
