Dear Dan,

Thank you for your prompt response of July 8, 1983.
Hopefully upon Wendy's return we can clear up this damage claim.

However, your letter totally ignored my request to be advised of the present location and condition of my exhibition prints.

And again, I request an itinerary of the exhibition and copies of the reviews.

I shall expect your reply within the next ten days.

Very truly yours,

Terry Schutte
Comptroller

Dear Terry,

Your letter arrived at an inopportune moment, because Wendy left last week for a one-month visit to Russia (a life's ambition). As I have no authoritative control over the matter, I cannot tell Bennington College to pay you this amount.

What happened was this: after a few memos and phone calls, I was told by NYU that the University could not handle the matter. My memory may be unclear on this, but I am somewhat sure that Wendy then passed it on to Bennington, to reimburse you directly from the Judson account. Not having heard from you for a year, I assumed it was cleared up.

Don't you think the legal noises are a little unnecessary in this case? Wendy and I are more than willing to follow this through, but you've certainly soured us on ever dealing with you again.

Yours,

Daniel Cameron
