WE WASH AWAY

The Sun is rising
It shines on our faces
The river is flowing
Washing us out to sea

Feel the sunlight
look toward the ocean

The river is Washing us washing us down

In an Ocean of ageless faces
Time, silent slips bye
The people and the places wash away like the tide.

DRAGONFLY SCREAM

I learned a secret
While lost in a dream
Somewhere in a barren field
I heard a dragonfly scream
Its wings were made of fire
Its eyes were made of stone
The rocky earth gave no sign
That it was the land of the living
The dragonfly was all that it was giving
I watched it from afar
While crouched in a dried up stream
All my ears could hear
Was that dragonfly scream.
